

FACULTY SITS DOWN UPON STUDENTS

Present Style of Commencement
Will Continue at University.

In their efforts to secure separate graduation from the normal college students at the University of Utah, the faculty has been down to defeat Monday afternoon. By a large majority the faculty voted to continue the present style of commencement and to graduate college and normal students together next June. Although the final vote for conjoint exercises was overwhelming, the faculty did not pass over the subject lightly. They spent two solid hours yesterday afternoon discussing the question and the vote represents the conclusions finally reached.

Students Hit Hard.
Although the action of the faculty may be the best solution of the problem at present time, there is no denying that to many staunch college workers it will be a hard blow. College students, seniors particularly, have been actively working for separate commencement during the last few months. Normal students have remained silent for the most part, not attempting to favor or denounce the present system with a view of having it continued or discontinued. Faculty members have taken sides and so in the college halls as well as in the school paper the issue has been repeatedly discussed. On the part of all there has been a desire to do the best which will best promote the interests of the University and in this spirit will the final decision of the faculty be received.

Seniors Present Case.
At the beginning of the faculty meeting Karl Hopkins, president of the senior class, was given an opportunity to present the question as viewed by the seniors. After answering several questions he was excused. The faculty then went to the question, Prof. Cummings and Young were the staunch supporters of separate graduation. They asserted that the interests of the University proper demanded it; that it meant the growth of the college departments and a step in the direction of building up a new state university. They pointed out that the absence of a definite line of demarcation between college and university students was partly influential in driving high school students out of the State to do their college work in many places in the State. The University proper and the normal department are the same thing. Separate graduation would bring home to these the distinction.

Opposition Is Heard.
Those opposed to separate exercises pointed out that at Columbia, where normal students are graduated along with college students or even those who have done work for a doctor's degree. They thought the extra expense and preparation required for two separate commencements unnecessary. To them the distinction of cap and gown and the distinction of the president in conferring the degree are sufficient to make plain the difference between a college and a university graduate. Conjoint exercises, they thought, enable the University to make a better showing before the public, the disadvantages of which are not offset by separate exercises. The action of the faculty makes it certain that not for some years to come if ever will the University have a normal and college students. For the last ten years the question has been discussed, but the approach of commencement more or less by every senior class this year, because of the exceptionally large class, seniors it was thought that such action before the public would be a decided first of the year. The slogan of the senior class has been, "separate commencement."

The seniors of the present junior class, the seniors of next year, with the present class in number of students. This puts a quietus on whatever hopes there may be of separate exercises. Certainly, then, the question will not be brought up again next year.

Question Is Buried.
So far as the faculty goes, the question is now practically buried. Probably as long as exercises continue to be held in the Salt Lake theater, the question of separate commencements. Doubtless by the time the proposed "administrative" building at the University is completed, in which exercises of the faculty will be held, the sentiment now flickering in college graduates of the University for separate exercises will have been extinguished by the time the building is completed. The question will do away with many of the objections now advanced against separate commencement.

OIL AND RAILROADS

SUBJECT OF INQUIRY

Kansas Congressman Charges Discrimination; Says Standard Is in the Game.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Representative Campbell of Kansas introduced a joint resolution today instructing the Interstate Commerce commission to make an examination into the subject of railroad discriminations and monopolies, and report to Congress. It provides especially that it shall be determined whether the railroads own or control all other products which they haul, and whether there is any contract or conspiracy in restraint of trade to monopolize the trade in crude petroleum, refined oil or by-products. In case combinations are discovered, the Interstate Commerce commission is to suggest remedies on the subject of rate legislation.

The Campbell Resolution.

"Its purpose is to find out whether the Standard Oil company controls railroads and fixes rates," said Mr. Campbell. He had supposed the investigation under Mr. Garfield of the Department of Commerce and Labor related to the Standard Oil company's refusal to allow other companies to find out that this was not the case I felt that this was a proper subject for inquiry.

The Roads Involved.

The following named carriers are required to appear for investigation: Santa Fe railway, Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, St. Louis & San Francisco, Rock Island, Union Pacific, Kansas City Southern and the St. Louis Southern railway companies.

Secretary Taft Transmits Document Regarding Canal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Taft transmitted the canal commission's report to the President, summarizing the conclusions of the commission, which respectively favored a sea-level and a lock canal. He called attention to the fact that the act of Congress in effect fixes the minimum dimensions of the locks and the width and depth of the canal prism by the requirement that the canal should accommodate the largest vessels afloat, or such may be reasonably anticipated. As two ships now building, which are 60 feet long, 38 feet beam and 33 feet draft can be passed through the locks proposed by the minority, he says it is evident this requirement is met.

CLOSED CHURCHES

Edifices Nonproductive Six Days Out of Seven.

Imagine 100,000 department stores doing active business only one day in seven and remaining closed for the other six days, or, at best, doing a languid business on one or two odd afternoons. Imagine 100,000 theaters giving performances two or three evenings a week and then remaining closed and silent for four or five evenings. Imagine 100,000 factories working hours a day for a single day a week, and perhaps working five hours a day for two other days, and then letting their fine engines and machinery lie idle all the rest of the time. We should call it stupid and extravagant folly, we should expect such foolish factories, theaters and department stores to lose both in money and in general esteem, and if such conditions persisted, we should conclude either that the directors of these activities were hopelessly incompetent or that there was a very small demand for what they were trying to furnish.

DIRECTS FORCES THAT PROBE INTO EARTH

Superintendent of Drilling of Reclamation Service Talks of Irrigation Projects.

G. A. Hammond of the reclamation service has returned from an absence of over a month at Washington, D. C., and other Eastern points, and will leave in a few days to look over the work of the service in Arizona and California.

Superintendent of Drilling.

Mr. Hammond is superintendent of drilling, and the object of this branch of the work is to probe into the earth for the purpose of finding formations suitable for foundations on which to construct dams where great strength is desired. This is done by drilling that preserve the core and bring them to the surface intact, so that the engineers have a sample of the rock on which they are to build.

Irrigation Not New Venture.

In this connection he states that it should be known that irrigation is not a new venture in that region and it is not virgin territory. The valley is settled mostly by Mormons who were there many years ago, obtained title to the land and left it open to settlement under the homestead laws, the same as vacant lands elsewhere.

Land Owners Pay Cost.

The Government work of furnishing water is separate from that of granting rights. Land owners using the water pay for the cost of installing the water system, which differs in different localities and ranges from $18 to $45 an acre. This is paid to the Government in ten equal annual payments. In addition to this expense, the water-users are required to keep up the cost of maintenance of the system.
